News and Legislation Relating to Employment and Background Checks

News and Federal Legislation:

Background Checks

- On August 15th, Sen. Chuck Schumer (D-NY) announced his intention to introduce legislation to require a comprehensive background check performed by the Federal Bureau of Investigation on all employees of major power plants. Current law only requires such checks for employees of nuclear power plants, but Sen. Schumer voiced concern about the impact of a terrorist attack on other power plants.

E-Verify

- On August 15th, the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) expanded the E-Verify Self Check tool, including a Spanish language version and availability in twenty-one states and the District of Columbia. According to USCIS Director Alejandro Mayorkas, “By offering Self Check to Spanish speakers and making the service more widely available, USCIS makes good on a promise to streamline and protect the integrity of the E-Verify process for employees and employers alike.”

News and State Legislation:

Background Checks

- On August 19th, Delaware Gov. Jack Markell (D) signed into law a bill (H.B. 205), which will require all board members of public charter schools to undergo a criminal history background check. Board members also will have to disclose any financial interest they may hold in the school.
